

IS THE DEVIL A MYTH?

C. F. WIMBERLY

Global Grey ebooks

IS THE DEVIL A MYTH?

BY
C. F. WIMBERLY

1913

Is the Devil a Myth? by C. F. Wimberly.

This edition was created and published by Global Grey

©GlobalGrey 2019

globalgreeyebooks.com

CONTENTS

Preface

Chapter 1. The Problem Of Evil

Chapter 2. The Origin Of Evil

Chapter 3. Lucifer

Chapter 4. Devil-Satan-Serpent-Dragon

Chapter 5. Diabolus-Demonia-Abaddon-Apollyon

Chapter 6. The Devil A “Blockade”

Chapter 7. The Great Magician

Chapter 8. The Roaring Lion

Chapter 9. An Angel Of Light

Chapter 10. The Sower Of Tares

Chapter 11. The Arch Slanderer

Chapter 12. The Double Accuser

Chapter 13. Satan A Spy

Chapter 14. A Quack Doctor

Chapter 15. The Devil A Theologian

Chapter 16. The Devil A Theologian (Continued)

Chapter 17. The Devil's Righteousness

Chapter 18. The World's Tempter

Chapter 19. The Confidence Man

Chapter 20. The Trapper

Chapter 21. The Incomparable Archer

Chapter 22. The Father Of Liars

Chapter 23. Kingship Of Satan

Chapter 24. The Devil's Handmaiden

Chapter 25. The Astute Author

Chapter 26. The Hypnotist

Chapter 27. Devil Possession

Chapter 28. Devil Oppression

Chapter 29. Devil Abduction

Chapter 30. The Rationale Of Suicide

Chapter 31. Devil Worship

Chapter 32. Victory Through The Victor

Chapter 33. The Arrest And Imprisonment

Chapter 34. The Final Consummation

Chapter 35. Satanic Symbol In Nature

hole in the ground. And the bee returning to its hive is waylaid on the wing, and its body is torn open for the sake of the morsel of a honey-bag within."

Still another scientist tells us: "The microscope shows that these murderous imps appear to have been made to inflict the most excruciating torture upon their victims." He makes special mention of the sand hornet: "He is the greatest villain that flies, and is built for a professional murderer. He carries two keen scimitars, besides a deadly poisoned poniard, and is armed throughout with a coat of mail. He lives a life of tyranny and feeds on blood."

Every drop of water is swarming with hideous creatures which, if sufficiently magnified, would be frightful beyond description; the air we breathe is surcharged with death: infecting organisms which, if the system in the slightest degree becomes unable to eliminate them, bring on dreadful diseases. We must fight for our physical life daily. But for the immunity provisions of Providence, our bodies may be a charnal house, at any moment, of billions of bacilli hastening our end. These are stern facts which face every student of biology or natural history.

As a professor has well said, "He, therefore, who objects to the teaching of the sacred Scriptures concerning Satan and demons, and appeals to the Caesar of the natural world, can get no help, for that Caesar echoes back with thunder tones that there are myriads of living, malignant and destructive organisms in every realm of nature, so far as is known, or so far as one can reason from analogy, that, like Satan and demons, trouble and torment the innocent as well as the guilty; that in some instances these malignant organisms appear to inflict suffering for the sheer delight of doing it"

What is the conclusion of the whole matter: The existence of Diabolus and demonia is a fact of Revelation verified by both science and philosophy.
