The background of the cover is a painting of a mountain landscape. In the foreground, there is a church with several domes and a cross on top. The church is rendered in dark, muted colors. Behind the church, a large mountain range is depicted with various shades of blue and green. The sky is a mix of light and dark blue, with some white, cloud-like shapes. The overall style is somewhat abstract and expressive.

Questions And Answers

The unit of the Nation is the individual. The Government represents only the average intelligence of the units comprising the Nation. Therefore, our work is with the unit. When the thought of the individual has been changed the collective thought will take care of itself, but we try to reverse the process. We try to change governments instead of individuals, which cannot be done. But with a little intelligent organized effort the present destructive thought could be readily changed into constructive thought.

Temples have their sacred images, and we see what influence they have always had over a great part of mankind; but in truth, the ideas and images in men's minds are the invisible powers that constantly govern them; and to these they all pay universally a ready submission.—Jonathan Edwards.
