

An abstract painting with a rich, textured surface. The color palette is dominated by vibrant yellows, oranges, and blues, with some darker, more muted tones. The brushstrokes are visible and expressive, creating a sense of movement and depth. In the lower right corner, there is a stylized, yellowish figure that appears to be a person or a creature, rendered in a simple, almost sculptural style. The overall composition is dynamic and evocative.

excarnate lives in the inner world and reaches it through the inner senses. And the whole teaching of religion is that the soul, whether excarnate or incarnate, should obey the voice, rather than the voices, because the vox dei (voice of God) directs the vox populi, (voice of the people). As truth is from within the soul, and not a matter of experience, all spirits should be guided by the one spirit of God, whose word is truth. And we cannot know the truth unless we love it and learn to listen for its revelations, in the consciousness.

EXPERIMENT 12.

Remember that truth is God's omnipresent word, composed of five letters which symbolize the five pointed star, and represents white magic, because the apex is singular and points upward. Seek within for its revealments. It is the key to all mysteries. In every human voice the Divine voice is present. Clairaudiently God speaks through us . "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable." Spirits can use your words, voice and vocal organs, to address you. It is their spirits in breathing upon yours. Watch and wait. Listen and hear.
